FREE THEATER PERFORMANCE IN CENTRAL PARK

Saturday, July 31 at 7:00 PM

See The Feigned Courtesans (by Aphra Behn). Live theater in Central Park presented for free in a unique setting. "The great appeal of these productions is that they are adapted to work with the park's natural terrain-the audience follows the performance from place to place, as the plot unfolds from scene to scene. The separation between the performance and the audience is then blurred, as our spectators experience the play as if it were happening at this very instant and all around them". No tickets or reservations are necessary. The performance starts promptly at 7:00pm at West 103rd Street and Central Park West. Ansche Chesed will meet promptly at 6:45pm at the entrance to Central Park on Central Park West at West 103rd Street. Click here to see where we are meeting. For more information check out New York Classical Theatre's website at <http://www.newyorkclassical.org/>. taken. Heavy downpour cancels.
