New Shabbat Morning Class! Learn to Read Hebrew

Here is a perfect opportunity to enrich your Shabbat experience by learning to read the Hebrew alphabet on Shabbat mornings before services. You can then join in the davening in the Beginners' Minyan or any of our other services. The class will meet from 9 to 10 a.m. Contact Sharri Posen in the AC office if you're interested, sharri.posen@anschechesed.org or 212.865.0600 ext. 415. Taught by Sheila Lewis.

Lunchtime Class with Rabbi Dianne Cohler-Esses What Am I Saying When I Pray? Exploring Tefilla and Defining One's Own Theology

This class will explore and compare the theology embedded in various prayerbooks. We will also explore our own personal theology and religious beliefs, considering such questions as: What do I believe? How do I pray when my own beliefs are at odds with certain tefillot? And Who or what am I praying to?
6 Wednesdays, 12:30-1:30 p.m.
Beginning March 2

Parents & Children and the Divine Parent Rabbi Jeremy Kalmanofsky

One of our most common Jewish ways of speaking about God uses the parent/child metaphor. How can we understand this kind of religious language? How does it shape our experience of being children of earthly parents? How might it shape our self-conception as parents of earthly children? Join us to explore a theological metaphor and its impact on our most important ethical, spiritual, and emotional relationships.
4 Wednesdays, 8:00-9:00 p.m.
Beginning March 2

Talmud Study – New Time

Rabbi Kalmanofsky's Wednesday evening Hevra Shas (Talmud Study Group) will now meet from 7 p.m. to 8 p.m.
